

Let's Draw Lines

To Parents: This activity is designed to teach how to draw lines from top to bottom. (Note: Have your child use a crayon, marker, or pencil depending on his or her abilities.)

The cars are driving very fast. Trace from to .

The activity consists of three vertical lanes on a yellow and white striped background. Each lane is bounded by two vertical lines of a different color: orange, green, and blue. At the top of each lane is a cartoon car with a driver: a pink rabbit in a red car, a yellow dog in a yellow car, and a white cat in a blue car. A dashed pink line runs vertically down the center of each lane. A pink arrow points down from the top of the dashed line, and a blue arrow points down to the bottom of the dashed line. At the bottom of each lane is a second cartoon car, identical to the one at the top, positioned at the end of the dashed line.

Let's Draw Lines

To Parents: This activity is designed to teach how to draw zigzag lines. Have your child stop at each bend to change directions.

Let's drive to the station. Trace from to .

The image shows two parallel zigzag paths on a green dotted background. The left path starts with a blue elephant in a white car at the top, with a pink arrow pointing down. A dashed blue line follows a zigzag route down to a station labeled 'STATION' at the bottom, ending with a blue arrow. The right path starts with a brown bear in a pink car at the top, with a pink arrow pointing down. A dashed blue line follows a zigzag route down to a station labeled 'STATION' at the bottom, ending with a blue arrow. The paths are decorated with various icons: a yellow flower, a red tulip, and a green tree. The zigzag lines are formed by dashed blue segments connected at sharp angles.

Let's Draw Lines

To Parents: This activity is designed to teach how to draw a straight-to-curve line. Have your child draw a U-shaped line from the red arrow to the blue arrow.
